

SPORTS AND PARENTS ASSOCIATION – 501 ©3

Dear Families,

Developing our children into the great athletes that they can be is one of our top priorities. Developing a sound mind, self-worth, and enjoyment are essential keys to a productive mental and physical life as a youth or young adult. Therefore, the Sports and Parents Association has undertaken this mission to support those who want the same. It is the mission of our organization to provide resources, education, and training so that both athletes and spectators can enjoy sports.

As a child, I enjoyed playing a variety of sports. Some of these experiences were rewarding and stress-free, while others left me regretting having my parents sign me up. Eventually, I discovered that each experience gave me a glimpse of what I might be like as an adult. Using that "life album" helped me remember that trials and tribulations were not my developers but a nautical passage that helped me become my own navigator and designer. It is inevitable that life will sometimes cause stress, anger, and frustration. During these times, parents and guardians can provide support that will help a child get a ticket to the right ship, and one ticket that has them coming back home to receive more moral support.

Our goal at SAPA is to help you keep those you love safe and mentally and physically congenial so they can be the person they desire the most.

For Our Children,

Randy Richardson
CEO/President